

Center for Russian & East European Studies presents

Modern Rivers of Eurasia: Potential, Control, Change

An International Symposium in the Environmental Humanities

February 22-24, 2018

Humanities Center | Room 602 | Cathedral of Learning | University of Pittsburgh

KEYNOTE LECTURES

Thursday, February 22, 2018

4:30-6pm

Rivers and History, and Rivers of History

by Terje Tvedt, University of Bergen

Presented by the Global Studies Center

Friday, February 23, 2018

4:00-5:30pm

Living on the Margins—

Burlaki Culture and Identity on the Volga River

by Dorothy Zeisler-Vralsted, Eastern Washington University

For more information, visit www.ucis.pitt.edu/rivers-symposium or contact Patryk Reid at par85@pitt.edu

PittUCIS

University Center for International Studies

CENTER FOR
RUSSIAN & EAST EUROPEAN STUDIES

CO-SPONSORS: Asian Studies Center | Confucius Institute | Department of Anthropology | Department of History | Department of History, Carnegie Mellon University
Department of Sociology | European Studies Center | Global Studies Center | GSPIA | Humanities Center | World History Center