

Self-reflection

The presentation was on December 2nd, my country's national day. the 50th.

This year is one of the best years for the UAE, all the achievements and developments that are happening this year were massive. It was my pleasure to be able to represent my country on this day for this class and being able to inform the class about our culture and how diverse we are.

also, I noticed a lot of similarities from our culture, my classmates and I told each other stories about our childhood and the games we used to play and surprisingly we had a similar childhood regardless of our background.

I made tea and Karak (milk tea) and a dessert made from saffron and cardamom to take them to a journey back home with the flavors.
